Sub-Committee of Five Appointed by the Chosen Seventy.

Anti-Tammany Organizations Invited to Another Conference.

The Committee of Seventy is getting down to work, and if the present programme is carried out will open its anti-Tammany campaign in dead earnest within a day or two.

Chairman Charles Stewart Smith, of the Executive Committee, which was the Exe utive Committee, which was chosen at yesterday's meeting, announced to-day that a sub-committee of five had been appointed, of which he himself was chairman, whose purpose would be to combine the anti-Tammany force.

This Committee, he said, would confer with all the other organizations opposed to Tammany Hall, in order to effect, if possible, the nomination of a ticket upon which all the opposition could agree Work would be commenced at once, and the result would be given to the public at the earliest possible moment.

Who the members of this Conference Committee were besides himself, Mr. as a ground for his refusal that the gentlemen were all very much occupied just now and did not want to be overrun with reporters. It was very prob-run with reporters. It was very probable however, that the announcement would be made this afternoon, as a special meeting of the Executive Committee is called for 3 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce.

It was rumored that the other members of this committee were Gustav H. Schwab. W. Harris Roome, Simon Sterne and Horace Porter, while the names of W. Travers Jerome, Everett P. Wheeler and G. L. Rives were also mentioned. Several of these gentlemen were seen, but they declined to say whether they had been appointed to this committee or not.

The first outcome of this organization of the Committee of Beventy will be another conference of the anti-Tammany orces, and it is said that such a meeting will be talled at the Colaman House to-morrow night. Representatives from all the different organizations opposed to Tammany will be present, as at the first meeting, with the additional delegation representing the Committee of Seventy. Something definite in the way of a plan of campaign and the selection of a ticket it is believed will be the result of this second conference.

has not yet been secured those metings will be held for the present at the Chamber of Commerce.

One of the first things, however, to be done will be the selection and fitting up of suitable headquarters which will be convenient for the majority of the Committee. It will probably be located uptown, somewhere in the neighborhood of Madison Square.

The daily meetings of the Executive Committee will be secret, but Chairman Smith said this morning that he would give out to the public all information that was deemed advisable, and which would not, in his judgment, interfere with the object in hand.

"We are anxious to take the press and the public into our confidence," he said, but it would not do to have all our meetings open. We have nothing to concal, however, and are simply out to make the best fight we can against Tammany."

Judge McAdam Says All Parties His Bride Found It, and Now He Is Enger Is Good-Looking and Other May Be Imprisoned.

A motion was made before Judge Mc-Adam to-day by counsel for Mrs. Mary D. Sanford, the divorced wife of Walter S. Sanford, the manager of Niblo's The-A Ticket to Be Chosen on Which to set aside the decree of divorce which the latter secured March 30 last on the atre and several travelling companies, ground that the divorce was secured by conspiracy, connivance and fraud on the part of both Sanford and his wife. The arguments and the testimony of witnesses disclosed what Judge Mc-Adam described as the most remarkable case that had ever come before him, and he said that if, when all the witnesses are heard, he believes the charges true, and ordered that both the plaintiff and defendant be present in court.

Lawyer Bernard Traittel, counsel for Mrs. Sanford, opened the case by declaring that he believed the divorce secured by Sanford to be one of the greatest frauds ever practiced upon a court of justice.

curred by Sanford to be one of the greatest frauds ever practiced upon a court of justice.

He admitted that his client was a party to the fraud, but said she was partly excusable, because she lacked knowledge of the gravity of what she did, and also that she was in dire need of money.

Mrs. Sanford, who is a brunette, about thirty-three years old, was called to the stand by Judge McAdam. In reply to the Judge's questions, she said that she was at the St. Cloud Hotel March 2 last with a man named Kimball, and that she went there with Kimball by prearrangement with her husband, in order that he, with witnesses, might catch her,
and get a divorce.

Continuing Mrs. Sanford said she had never seen Kimball before that night, and that she had been introduced to him by Miss Annie Clark. She said she offered him 220 to go with her to a hotel so that Mr. Sanford could catch her. She explained to him that Mr. Sanford understood the matter and would make him no trouble.

He agreed, and they started for the Compton House, as that was the place
Mr. Sanford and she had agreed upon.
She took another man, who Kimball introduced, so that if Sanford should play her false she could prove that nothing improper happened between Kimball and herself.

They were refused admission at the Compton House, as the clerk refused to allow the second man to go to the room with them, as they wished. She then sent a message to her husband, saying:
"St. Cloud Hotel at 1 o'clock."

Then she went to the St. Cloud, and Kimball and she stayed in a room together until she was sure her husband would be in the corridor, and they came downstairs and Sanford said she was served with the summons in the divorce

Clark said sae saw ars. Samoto pay Kimball the money.

Mrs. Clark also said that Sanford and his wife had made a previous arrange-ment of the same sort as that of March 3. and that she was to be caught at the Ashland House, but the man that was to go with her backed out.

Justice McAdam continued the case until to-morrow to hear other witnesses.

Rev. Father Dooley. Mrs. O'Mara No. 2 then went to the District-Attorney's office with her husband and the indictment followed. Mrs. O'Mara No. 1 is still alive in Ireland.

Attached to the indictment handed in to-day was a certificate dated Galway, Ireland, Aug. 24, 1894, signed by Rev. P. Dooley, P. P. St. Nicholas, Exworth, in which Father Dooley says that he married O'Mara to Mary Marre on April 28, 1879.

O'Mara is thirty-six years old and is in the lipuor business. He is a fine-looking fellow and dresses handsomely. He came to this country three years ago.

With the indictment is the photograph which first awakened the suspicions of Mrs. O'Mara No. 2.

It shows O'Mara dressed in a frock coat and light trousers, studing by a lady in gorgeous travelling dress and wearing a hat with an enormous white ostrich feather. She carries a bouquet in her hand.

O'Mara was arrested and held in $3,000 bail to answer at court.

Afterwards Mrs. Sanford said she was served with the summons in the divorce suit, and when she saw the suit was also for the custody of their child she objected.

Sanford, she said, told her that was a mere formality, and that he didn't want the child, but would put it in a convent.

Mrs. Sanford said her husband gave her $500 and a play, and promised her sol a month, for her allowing him to get a divorce. Mrs. Sanford said that before her marriage had been an inmate in a house of ill-fame.

She said Sanford knew her history and furnished the money for her to secure a divorce from her first husband.

Mr. Sanford, when called to the stand, defined all his wife's charges. He said that she had offered to give him evidence on which he could get a divorce if he gave her $5,000. He said he refused this offer, and waited to catch her, which he did on March 3.

For some time thereafter there was great excitement in the Fourth Ward. Of course there would be a great wedding and iots of fun.

But "Jimmie" threw cold water on the expectations of his friends by denyong that he was engaged to anybody. Miss Eliwood would neither verify nor deny the report. "Jimmie" said some funny friend had inserted the engagement notice, and so everybody gave up the idea of attending a wedding.

Not until a very few days ago was the word passed around that "Jimmie" was really to be married, and that very soon, and that the same Lizzle Voronica Eliwood was the prospective bride.

There was great disappointment, however, when it was learned that the wedding would be a very quiet one, with only a few of the most intimate friends of both families present. The reason for this was said to be the serious illness of the brides father.

About one hundred persons were in the church to-day when Father J. J. Morris, a long-time friend of young Divver, pronounced the couple husband and wife. The bride was cald in a dark-blue crepon travelling gown, with yellow garnitures. She waited up their door was her brother, James Ellwood, who gave her away. Her maid of honor was Miss Isabella G. were not fancied.

The choices had the race between them. Sir Knight and Sir Waiter locked horns at the head of the stretch, and in a bitterly fought finish Sir Knight won by a short head. Prince Carl was third, closing fast, as usual.

The second race had a very "fishy" look. That is every one behind the winner, Counter Tenor, looked to be taking things easy. Penn rode Wah Jim under a strong pull, just the opposite to what he should have done.

Counter Tenor won pulled to a walk, despite the fact that he was conceiting weight to all the others. He was a hot favorite, being heavily backed by Dave Gideon. Maid Marian beat Wah Jim a neck for the place.

Chris Smith plunged on his filly Handspun in the third race, and played it down from 4 to 1 to 3 to 1. Many of the railbirds, who saw the filly warm up, also had swell bets down on her. There was a heavy play on Louise filly, which enabled the Handspun players to get were not fancied.
